Thus the applicable general principle in Oil Field of Texas was that where a de facto succession to rights and obligations takes place, the surviving entity is under an obligation to pay appropriate compensation to creditors of the company that had ceased to exist.

[Set out in detail.]

Referring Principles:

- X.3 - Liability in case of corporate de-facto successions